ELECTRONIC LITERATURE - SELECTED WORKS

“...Malloy who began her writing in the Internet Art mode with her Uncle Roger in 1986 is still active today creating extremely intricate texts that extend stream of consciousness writing pioneered by Virginia Woolf in the early years of the 20th century. In The Whole Room...parts of which have appeared on Facebook, she merges stream of consciousness techniques with computer coding to generate new and unimaged texts that expand awareness.” – A Dictionary of the Avant-Gardes, 2018 edition.

New: Judy Malloy, *Arriving Simultaneously on Multiple Far-Flung Systems*, 2018

Short-listed for the 2018 Robert Coover prize for the year's best work of electronic literature. Exhibitions: Premiere: August, 2018 at ELO2018, Université du Québec à Montréal. Review Clip: “...a matrix of constantly changing narrative fragments that eventually tell the story of a woman who worked as a programmer in the 1960’s and 70’s. Its disjointed interface and narrative structure mirror the technology of the time, when stacks of punch cards were used to input data and gaps or alterations in the sequence of cards would lead to unpredictable results.” – Roman Kalinovski, Arcade Project, 2018

Judy Malloy, *The Yellow Bowl*, Narrabase Press, 1993. 2019 JavaScript in HTML5/CSS environment is in progress; Originally written in the last flowering of BASIC. Performance Reading: ELO 2019, Cork, Ireland, July 2019. Exhibitions: Digital Identities, Sheppard Gallery, University of Nevada, Reno, February 3-March 3, 1995; Interactive Art, FISEA, Minneapolis, MN, November, 1993. Paper: Judy Malloy, “Between the Narrator and the Narrative” presented at on the "Hypertext, Hypermedia: Defining a Fictional Form"(Terence Harpold, chair, Michael Joyce, Carolyn Guyer, Judy Malloy, and Stuart Moulthrop, Modern Languages Association Convention NYC, December 29, 1992.

Judy Malloy, *As if the Memory was a Song: *From Ireland with Letters**, 2010-2017

Review Clip: “For over two decades, Malloy has been spinning together history, fiction, technology, memoir, geography, arts, and love into narrative poems that capture the zeitgeist of the early Internet era. With another portion in the making, the time may have arrived for a hypertext epic” – Leonardo Flores.

Readings: Judy Malloy, Christine Tambllyn, and Maria Hernandez, "Hypertext", S.F. Public Library, Park Branch, (Video: The American Poetry Archives) May 12, 1994. Papers: "Constructing Generative Hypertext: its Name was Penelope," in Maria Mencia, ed., #WomenTechLit, West Virginia University Press, 2017 Review Clip: "Malloy uses the fluidity of the hypertextual medium to create a poetic text, which, in spite of its fragmentation and discontinuity, leads to a reading experience that is very satisfying because it allows the reader greater creativity as to the form the reading will take....In Malloy's text, the visual is transformed into the verbal. The border between text and image dissolves, and image becomes the text." - Jaishree K. Odin, Modern Fiction Studies (MFS)

Judy Malloy, Uncle Roger, The Electronic Literature Collection. Vol. 3, 2016. Art Com Electronic Network, (ACEN) 1986-1988

Papers: Judy Malloy, "Uncle Roger, an Online Narrabase", in Roy Ascott and Carl Loeffler, eds Connectivity: Art and Interactive Telecommunications, Leonardo 24(2), 1991 pp. 195-202. Documentation clip: "Our work demonstrates that Malloy approached each recreation of Uncle Roger as a unique work of art, conceptualizing it to take advantage of the affordances of the platform or medium on which it would reside and by which the audience would reach it. For close to thirty years, Malloy has kept Uncle Roger alive and accessible to her reading audience. At a time when Flash-based poetry and fiction created less than a decade ago are becoming unreadable on computing devices, this is no small feat." – Dene Grigar, Traversals
